

BUILDING A STRONG FOUNDATION

Lutheran Volunteer Corps (LVC) is a national public service and leadership development organization that matches volunteers with full-time positions in social justice organizations for one year. LVC partners with more than 120 social justice organizations in 16 U.S. cities.

Spirituality and LVC

Founded by Luther Place Memorial Church in Washington, DC, Lutheran Volunteer Corps is a Christian ministry steeped in Lutheran traditions and theology, but open to persons of all faith traditions. Volunteers do not need to be Lutheran or of any faith tradition, but are expected to share their faith journeys, discern vocational direction and try on spiritual practices. The broader community is invited to share in these practices and support Volunteers in their work.

Journey to an Inclusive Community

LVC holds an organization-wide commitment to becoming an anti-oppression organization by working towards dismantling racism, heterosexism, sexism and other oppression present in our society and institutions. Volunteers receive training and opportunities for reflection with a common language and analysis of systemic oppression. Staff and board members provide leadership of these efforts and use this lens in making decisions. Your support keeps the JIC alive.

Dear LVC Community,

We give thanks for your continued support in 2010-2011. Your gifts enabled us to welcome LVC Volunteers in Atlanta and Detroit/Port Huron this year after adding LVC Volunteers in Omaha in 2009-2010 through our partnership with Lutheran Service Corps. We have learned that new growth needs some time to take root before thriving. In LVC's case this means developing relationships, supporting staff and laying important groundwork for LVC's future.

So this time of intense expansion is followed by a period for LVC to fully grow into its new size, recruiting placement organizations and Volunteers to build a firm foundation for the future.

With the addition of these new locations, the 145 Volunteers serving in 2010 – 2011 was our largest group ever. However, our efforts at increasing that number for the 2011-2012 year fell short as we were hampered by the state of our economy. Many of our placement organizations have struggled to make ends meet to keep even their regular staff in place. Yet they need our Volunteers more than ever and are finding creative ways to stay in partnership with LVC. Your support becomes even more critical for organizations to receive the benefits of having an LVC Volunteer. The good news is that we continue to have a strong pool of applicants who want to spend a year living simply and sustainably in intentional community working for social justice. Over and over we hear that LVC's commitment to anti-oppression work and welcoming space for spiritual exploration are what set us apart from other year-long volunteer programs.

2010-2011 also turned out to be the Rev. Mike Wilker's last year serving as LVC's president because he responded to a call back to parish ministry, becoming senior pastor of Lutheran Church of the Reformation in Washington, D.C. in October of 2011. We give thanks for his gifts and his service to LVC. One gift he left was putting us in relationship with a consultant to train us to be more outcome-focused in our work while grounded in our core values.

A board-led Transition Team is in place to find and welcome a new president with a goal of hiring someone by the June 2012 meeting of our board of directors. Eileen Supple, in service to LVC as interim president, has encouraged us to take this time to ask critical questions about what we do as well as why and how.

As a nationwide Lutheran social ministry, LVC has united people to work for peace with justice in ten states plus the District of Columbia through our residential-based year-long volunteer program. In 2010-2011 we laid the groundwork to experiment with a new way to carry out our mission through a non-residential model called the Jubilee Project. A multi-generational, multi-racial cohort will live in their own homes, receive a modest stipend to work at a placement organization and regularly meet with other Jubilee Volunteers to deepen their understanding of racism and other oppressions, practice spirituality and organize to make systemic change. We will pilot Jubilee in the Twin Cities beginning August 2012.

We recognize that our mission of uniting people to work for peace with justice includes more than just current Volunteers and placement organizations. It includes alumni and their families, congregations in LVC cities and other places, colleges and universities where our Volunteers studied, foundations and their grant officers as well as the generous people listed in this report as our donors.

We value your support, especially during this interim time, and thank you for your continued partnership in living simply and sustainably, building intentional community and doing justice.

Blessings,

William R. Fuson
Board Chair

WORKING FOR JUSTICE

Work placements in LVC cover a wide range of justice issues including affordable housing, food justice, health care, education, environmental justice, and more. Some Volunteers care for neighbors through direct service, and others address the causes of injustice through community organizing and advocacy.
